

BLUEJAY BUZZ

ELEMENTARY EDITION

It's Friiii-Day! Finally. We know that some of these winter weeks can drag a bit, and spring break seems so far away. But take heart, we'll get there! We hope you find something fun to do this weekend, and in the meantime, take a look at the news below, and as always, let us know if you have any questions.

Congrats, Geo Bee Winners!

This week, the elementary students in grades 4-6 participated in our annual school geo bee. We'd like to congratulate your winners: Ashton Boehm, first place; Ayla Connor, second place; and Tommy Wallschlaeger, third place. Students first took an in-class test to qualify for the geo bee. The elementary geo bee prepares students for the JH bee, which is part of the national competition.

We're 100 Days Smarter!

We made it through 100 days of school! Although the official 100th day was Friday, Feb. 7, TLE students celebrated on Monday because we were so busy with our preschool screening last Friday. We saw all sorts of creative 100-day hats in the building, along with a few 100-year-old 4Kers in disguise. Click here to see the photo gallery.

Child Development Day Success

Many of the elementary teachers were busy this past Friday with Child Development Day, which is the annual preschool screening and registration event here at TLSD. We had so many new faces in the building, and we're excited to welcome these youngest Bluejays into our nest. Can you believe the next 4K class will graduate in 2034?

Spreading Kindness on Valentines

Our TLE Student Council did something kind of awesome this week to make sure every student received a valentine on Valentine's Day. Near the office, they set up a table where students could stop and address a card to another student. A school name list was provided, and students simply had to put their cards into the bags marked for each class. What a great way to think of others!

From the Library Shelf

Matt de la Peña's book, Love, is the perfect way to celebrate your Valentine's Day! This tender story shares many of the ways we experience love, from the love of grandparents to the love you feel when you look at the stars. This book has beautiful illustrations and can facilitate a great conversation within your family about all of the love that is around us. Click here to check it out!
