Delta Kappa Gamma

The Delta Kappa Gamma Literary Society provides the opportunity for students to write and illustrate their own short stories. At the school level, first place stories written by Brooke Neumann, Sawyer Szews, Ella Spears and Tobias Volkmann were recently sent on to the regional level for judging. We are proud to announce that all four stories were medal winners! Ella received a bronze medal; Brooke, Sawyer and Tobias were awarded gold medals, and their stories are now being judged at the state level of the competition. We wish them the best of luck!

Lost and Found

Please check out the lost and found. Items not claimed by March 23 will be donated to the Jays Nest.

Easter Vacation

Easter/Spring vacation will start on early release day for students on Friday, March 23 with busses leaving at 12:45. Staff and students will return to school on Tuesday, April 3.

Spring Cleaning

We would like students to clean out their lockers before Easter break to make sure all wet items are taken home to freshen up! Sending a plastic bag or two with your child may be helpful.

4K Registration

If your child will be 4-years old by September 1, it is time to register for 4K! Just stop in the school office!

Items to bring along include a birth certificate and immunization record.

From the Library Shelf...

Have you heard the saying, "If it seems too good to be true, it probably is"? This is exactly the idea that comes to mind when considering this week's recommendation The Sinister Sweetness of Splendid Academy by: Nikki Loftin. Lorelai has to attend a new school after her old one burns down, and things at Splendid Academy are amazing! Between the new friends she's meeting, gourmet meals, an endless supply of candy on desks, and an incredible playground, Lorelai thinks she's hit the jackpot! However, when her new friend mysteriously disappears, Lorelai realizes that there might be more to this school than meets the eye...

On Tuesday, the 4th grade class performed a nutrition play for the other students in the school, as well as any parents who could make it for a performance. The play was entitled "Get Your Act Together" and featured the six food groups all performing an act to make it into a new film produced by Nancy Nutrition. The entire group "rocked out" to a nutrition song as the grand finale and were greeted by thunderous applause. Thanks to all who came to enjoy the show!

Reinforce Learning by Having Your Child Teach You Something

Students are more motivated to learn when they feel capable, connected and in control. Having your child teach you things nurtures these feelings. When your child tries to teach you about what he is doing, it can help him understand assignments better, reinforce what he knows and reveal gaps in his own comprehension. Try these strategies:

- Show an interest in what your child is learning in school. Have him show you a homework assignment, explain a concept or read a chapter in his textbook aloud to you.
- Let your child quiz you. See if you can name the state capitals or the first five presidents. Try to define vocabulary words and recall math or science facts.
- Ask your child to help you solve a problem or create something. What does he think you should do first, second, next?
- Ask your child to teach you how to play one of his favorite games.
- Ask for your child's opinion and consider it before solidifying your own.

Understand What's at Stake When Your Child Misses School

"Does it really matter if my child misses school?" parents sometimes wonder. "Yes!" say experts. Research shows that regular attendance is linked to current and future school success.

Excused and unexcused absences take a toll on learning. And not everything students miss can be made up with homework. The class discussion about the book they are reading can't be captured in homework. Neither can the science demonstration or the group project for history. In some subjects, like math, missing even a few days is a problem because learning builds on what students already know.

In addition to missing out on daily lessons, students who are absent miss the chance to build social and academic foundations that help with future learning. So, support your child's school attendance today and watch him/her reap the benefits for years to come.
